THE UCLA FRITZ, JENNY, AND GUSTAV BERGER FELLOWSHIP IN HOLOCAUST STUDIES

---

The UCLA Alan D. Leve Center for Jewish Studies is pleased to announce the Fritz, Jenny, and Gustav Berger Fellowship in Holocaust Studies. The Fellowship is open to any UCLA graduate student engaged in Holocaust related research including, but not limited to:

- Comparative literary and cultural approaches to Holocaust memory and representation.
- The evolution of knowledge of, and disciplinary approaches to, the Holocaust.
- The near destruction and revival of Yiddish language, literature, and historiography.
- The “universalization” of the Holocaust and its relation to other instances of genocide.
- Understudied areas of research on the borders of the Holocaust.

This fellowship will provide a stipend of $20,000 plus resident tuition and fees for the 2017-18 AY.

To apply, please submit a summary of up to 500 words describing your research, a transcript and statement of progress toward your degree, and two letters of recommendation, one of which should come from your department or dissertation advisor, by April 7, 2017.

Eligibility:

- Must demonstrate high financial need based on UCLA Financial Aid Office Standards.
- Must submit a Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) by March 2 and be eligible for financial aid at UCLA.
